leaving the local Bishop at liberty to impart flexibility to the order at his own discretion.

All these questions will be summed up in the resolutions of the encyclical letter, which has been sanctioned to-day at the closing session of the Conference. What may not be equally apparent in that official summary is the instinctive recoil against centralization and absolutism which is the characteristic feature of this unique assembly of prelates. The Anglican communion. like the British Empire, is governed in a constitutional way, each section with its own ecclesiastical order and law-makers, yet one and all knit together in a coherent and close fellowship. The bishops, if they had any desire for creating a highly centralized order of government, would be as harassed and perplexed as Mr. Chamberlain has been when he has tried to tell the Colonial Premiers how the British Empire can be unified by some scheme of imperial representation or federation. Like astute statesmen, they do not attempt to carry out a policy which would be contrary to the genius of Eng-18h institutions and habits of thought. They do not want anarchy in church government, nor do they aspire to introduce absolutism. They have the same preference for local liberty and self-government which the English-speaking race displays in political affairs throughout the world. They believe that there can be comprehensive unity of purpose and common fellowship, with the largest measure of flexibility in local conditions and discipline.

FIGURES OF THE CONFERENCE

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Temple, has been the commanding figure of the Conference. He is a grim-visaged Primate, stern and businesslike in manner, with great executive capacity and inherent power of intellect, and a sardonic humor almost tronical. He is not a genial Primate, but he is a man of force, whose will is strongly felt in the English Church. He is, withal, an unostentatious and modest prelate. who shrinks from any unnecessary display of his authority. He is probably the last member of the Conference who would care to have the Archbishop of Canterbury a greater figure in the religious world than he is at present. When his predecessor died the arrangements for the Conference had been made, and the order of some of the opening services determined. Archbishop Temple has carried out his predecessor's ideas without essential change, and done little to impress his own character or ideas upon the Conference. He has no ambition to be known as Anglican Patriarch or Pope.

The American bishops have exerted great insence, as they deserved to do, by virtue of their numbers and high character. Doane, of Albany, has made perhaps the deepest impression as an original thinker with a philosophical mind. He has been considered the real leader of the American House of Bishops by virtue of commanding intellect, carnestness of purpose and courtly manners. Bishop Potter has also been admired as a fine type of a broad-minded American bishop, with a readiness in debate which most of the English bishops lack. The American bishops have been treated with marked deference during every stage of the Conference, and their influence has been decisive in determining its action in every controversial matter. No Lambeth Conference can ever advance the Archbishop of Canterbury to the dignity of Patriarch or Pope without the consent of the American bishops. Possibly that is one of the reasons why they are always elcomed to a conference with unwonted cordiality. The English and Colonial bishops recognize in them a body of American prelates who will never bring their Church into false and irrational relations of subordination to the See of Canterbury, nor sanction any scheme of centralized polity which is not in accord with Eng-I. N. F. lish instincts.

A NEW OCEAN RECORD.

THE ETRURIA SETS A FAST PACE FOR SINGLE-SCREW STEAMERS TO EMU-LATE-MR. TUPPER'S TROUBLES.

The steamship Etruria, of the Cunard Line, arin port early yesterday morning from Liverpool after the fastest passage across the Atlantic ever made by a single-screw steamer. She passed Daunt's Rock at $.57 a. m. on Sunday, August 1, and reached the Sandy Hook lightship at 1:32 days, 2, hours and 10 minutes. The best previous ord for single-screw vessels belonged to the 'mbria, also of the Cunard Line, which made the trip in 5 days 22 hours and 7 minutes.

James Stewart Tupper, son of Sir Charles Tupper, formerly Prime Minister of Canada, who was a passenger on the Etruria, had a somewhat sharp collision with the clause of the new Tariff law concerning the baggage of passengers from foreign shores. Mr. Tupper, who was accompanied by a friend named Travers Lewis, of Waterworth, Canada, was anxious to proceed as quickly as possible to his destination at Toronto. Mr. Tupper besought the revenue officers to examine his effects without any undue loss of time. Mr. Tupper was thereupon politely requested to exhibit the contents of his pockets. He obeyed immediately, and he fished from his clothes four solld silver candlesticks, not very large, but superbly embossed; a black leather case containing a pair of silver salt-cellars; a case wherein lay a silver spoon; a silver watch, a number of Queen's Jubilee medals and a little box holding a child's diamond-studded gold ring.

Why, these are only trinkets," Mr. Tupper said "All intended for my own household." He seemed indignant at having had to submit to the search. was informed as to the provision of the new law which requires a duty on all baggage of over law which requires a duty on all baggage of over 100 in value.

"I was told in London," said Mr. Tupper, hotly, "that I could bring over $100 worth of goods, and I brought these over under that belief." Without making any reply the assistant appraiser quietly made a little calculation, and then calmly informed Mr. Tupper that he would have to pay $30.32 in duty. Mr. Tupper looked the surprise he doubtless feit but he paid the tax and recovered his trinkets feit but he paid the tax and recovered his trinkets and silverware. When it came Mr. Lewis's turn to face the appraisers he promptly brought forth several silver ornaments, upon which he was asked to pay $10.50. Mr. Lewis paid the duty somewhat rejuctantly, and remarked: "The silverware was not worth more than $15. It is pretty hard that one should have to pay this tax and be pulled about merely because one has brought over a few trinkets for his own home." Subsequently the detectives discovered two large wooden boxes containing chinaware, but, although they were seized, it is probable that Mr. Tupper will be allowed to send them to Canada in bond.

Apparently the provisions of the new Tariff law applying to personal effects are becoming well known on the other side. All the passengers on the Erroria submitted to the examination of their luggage without the remonstrances or questionings that have so frequently been heard on the piers of incoming Atlantic steamers in the last few weeks. It was estimated by Deputy Collector John A. Willes that the total amount paid by the Etruria's passengers was between $500 and $700.

CHANG YEN HOON AT THE SEASHORE. Chang Yen Hoon, the Chinese Envoy to the Queen's Jubilee, who returned from Europe on the American Line steamship St. Louis on Friday. Journeyed down to Manhattan Beach yesterday to Set a breath of the ocean breeze. The distinguished Oriental and his numerous suite were not astiruntil a late hour yesterday. After breakfast and a drive in the Park the Special Envoy started for the Beach. He was accompanied by Lord Li, a nephew Beach. He was accompanied by Lord Li, a nephew of Li Hung Chang. Most of the secretaries and servants remained at the hotel. It is the present intention of the Special Ambassador to spend the coming week in New-York. He will return from Manhattan Beach on Monday and go to the Waidorf once more. The week will be spent in sight-seeing, and various receptions are planned. It is the intention of chang Yen Hoon to go to Philadelphia the last of the week and visit Cramp's shippards. Then he will return to this city and go on to Montreal, on his way to Vancouver and China.

BUSINESS AND PROGRAMMES AT THE ROOF GARDENS.

The return of roof-garden weather had its due effect upon the audiences of Koster & Bial's last week. If the attendance the coming week depends upon the strength of the several attractions, it should be large. Pantzer brothers will give another week of their feats of head balancing. One of the new acts is that of Tacianu, the male so prane and female impersonator. Tacianu was at this house early last spring. Bertina, a contortionist, will the her limbs in a series of new and involved knots. Maud Harcey, the singer and dancer, is also to appear. De Bessell, whose modelling in clay has found favor with the audiences of the last week, has been re-engaged, and will present a series of new and novel countenances. Sato, whose tramp-juggling act is amusing, also appears for another week. The Lane sisters are to give a series of acrobatic dances, and the three Richards, acrobats, are also on the bill. Johnson and Dean, two colored performers, who come East with the indorsement of Panific Coast playgoers, will appear for the first time in a New-York house. prano and female impersonator. the manager, J. B. Doris, the last week has attested the wisdom of burlesque innovation conjunction with vaudeville. "Little Casino, the hour-and-a-half satirical skit which now follows the variety bill on the Casino roof, seems easily to fulfil its mission, and continues to draw hundreds of auditors. Fresh introductions of a second week's hearing will include a band of Clondykers. "The Man Who Gave the Queen the Jubilee," "Susie Johnson's Man," "Phoebe" and "My Sweet Little Esquimau" are great favorites. Vaudeville numbers to precede the travesty this week include Lesier and Irene, sketch artists; the Herald Quartet, the sisters Darling, the Metropolitan Trio, and York and Adams.

The glass covering which protects the spacious roof garden of Hammerstein's Olympia has certainly proved useful during the last two weeks. With the protection which this covering offers from any sudden shower of rain, and the bill which is provided, the Olympia Roof Garden is a good place to spend a pleasant summer's evening. An excellent bill has been provided for this week. The Vinette sisters, in their marblesque poses, will appear. They come directly from Paris, and their appearance last week was delayed on account of the sisters, who has now entirely recovered. Signor Zoul Quinto, an Italian operatic barytone, will also make his first American appearance to-morrow night, and will sing several selections from Italian operas. The rest of the bill is made up of Proto, a dancer; Miss Josie De Witt, violinist; Alburtus and Bartram, in their exhibition of club-swinging; the Gebrue sisters, buck and wing dancers; Four Emperors of Music; Couture brothers, acrobats; Hacker and Lester, head to head balancers, and several other well-known specialties.

A new horror was added to the Chamber of Horrors at the Eden Musée yesterday which will make that chamber more realistic. It is a wax group under the Sultan's influence, and occupies a special room in the chamber. It is a copy of Gérôme's us painting. In the background is a temple, and from the steps of this an execution has taken and from the steps of this an execution has taken place. The executioner has just let his keen sword fall upon the neck of the victim, outstretched upon the steps, and as a result the head has been completely severed, and the scene made more ghastly by the fiendish look of the executioner. The object of this group is to show some of the Sultan's barbarous practices. The chematograph will exhibit moving pictures on Sunday afternoons and evenings, and the daily concerts will continue to be of a high standard.

When Miss Julia Arthur's manager was negotiating with Edwin Arden to create the part of Sir John Oxon in the forthcoming production of "The Lady of Quality" Mr. Arden was on the road, and in the leisure moments of his professional duties he kilied time by playing the races on tips furnished him by a professional friend in New-York who was in a position to obtain inside information. The telegrams came regularly every day from the New-York end, and Arden was doing a land-office business in the provincial poolrooms. One day the friend dropped provincial poolrooms. One day the friend dropped into Mrs. Fernandez's office and overheard a conversation relative to Mrs. Burnett's plece and of the part of Oxon, which was described as "great." He further learned that the role had been offered Arden, who had asked time to consider. Fearing that his friend might miss a good chance, the New-York man telegraphed. "Play Oxon. Don't miss it. Good thing." Arden received the telegram and rushed for the poolroom. The next day he answered New-York collect: "Played Orion, third race—al. I had. He's running yet. Thanks." Explanations of the missake followed by mail, but Arden doesn't believe any more in tips by wire or "good things." He paraphrases Pudd'inhead Wilson's remark by saying. "It's the difference in handwriting that makes horse-racing profitable."

The Knickerbocker Theatre will reopen on August 23 with a continuation of the engagement of Klaw & Erlanger's extravaganza, "One Round of P.easure." Some radical changes have been made in the piece, and in its new form it will be given in two acts, instead of three. There are new songs for the spinsters, the jesters, Lady Macbeth and Edson Reaten. There will be few changes in the company. Walter Jones will appear sgain as the inventor and Walter Jones will appear again as the inventor and will have two new songs in addition to "Time Is Money" and "The Villain Still Pursued Her." GEORGE GREEN.

George Green, proprietor of the Hotel Metropoldied at an early hour yesterday morning. died at an early hour yesterday morning. Mr. Green's death was not entirely unexpected, as he had been ill for about six weeks. He was one of the best-known hotel men in the country, and has controlled the Metropole since 1888, when the old Rossmore was rebuilt and made into the Metropole. Mr. Green was born in New-York about forty-eight years ago. For a long time he was proprietor of the Hoffman House Statles and also president of the Crosstown Railroad Company. Both these he gave up when he took charge of the Metropole. He was a director of the New-York Horse Show Company and a prominent factor in the yearly shows. His hackney stallion, Rufus, jr., won a blue ribbon in 1835, and he has owned other prize-winners. His farm at Katonah, N. Y. is one of the largest hackney farms in the country. He leaves a wife and two sons.

AN IMPORTANT FINANCIAL TRANSACTION.

A project looking to the material development of the Connecticut Indemnity Association of Waterbury, Conn., has now been sufficiently advanced to insure its successful completion in the near future, and the company will shortly be in position to materially extend its business on National lines, in every section of the country. The majority of the stock has heretofore been held by Connecticut capitalists, but under the present plan the control of the stock will be shared with the incoming New-York directors, who, it is stated, pay $165 per share for their holdings.

With a capital stock of $500,000 and operating on thoroughly sound lines, the Connecticut Indemnity Association is particularly well qualified for operations in the National field. It was originally organized for the transaction of Connecticut busin only, but has gradually enlarged its limitations, and

A brief resume of the history and progress of the company may not be amiss. It has been actively engaged in business for ten years under a special charter from the Connecticut Legislature, granted in 185. The total stock issue was taken by prominent residents of Waterbury, among the purchasers being such well-known men as Lewis A. Platt, the millionaire president of Platt Brothers' Company, his father, Charles M. Platt, H. L. Wade, president of the Waterbury Clock Company. John B. Doherty and A. M. Blakesley, of the Waterbury National Bank, all of whom are directors. Other prominent stockholders and directors are ex-Senator M. C. Butler, of South Carolina; the Hon, Martin A. Knapp, Interstate Commerce Commissioner; Lawson N. Fuller, of New-York City, and Carman R. Hetfield, of Brooklyn, N. Y. IDEAS FOR THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

SOME WERE INGENIOUS, BUT THEY FAILED T PLEASE THE COMMITTEE.

Paris, Aug. 7 .- A hundred projects for attractions for the Paris Exposition of 1900 were submitted to the committee to-day. They included the building of a copy of Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty, in New-York Harbor, six hundred feet high; the construction of a restaurant under water, to be built glass; an enormous vertical screw with a nut, fitted as a café; a reproduction of the Trojan Horse, capable of holding a thousand persons, and plans for fitting the Eiffel Tower with a spiral railway and a toboggan chute.

The committee decided that none of the schemes were practicable.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT

LEWIS MORRIS IDDINGS TO BE SECOND SECRE TARY OF EMBASSY AT ROME.

Washington, Aug. 7.-The President has made the following appointments:

LEWIS MORRIS IDDINGS, of New-York, to be Second Secretary of the Embassy of the United States at Rome. WILLIAM L. DISTIN, of Quincy, III., to be Sur-reyor-General of Alaska, vice Gilbert B. Pray, de-dined. OSEPH P. SKILLMAN and LYMAN B. CAR-

JOSEPH P. SKILLMAN and LYMAN B. CAR-HART, to be assistant appraisers of merchandise in the District of New-York. Also the following postmasters: Mary B. Griswold, Gullford, Conn. Chester A. Burt, Helmetta, N. J. Fred Bostwick, Pine Plains; Richard W. Box, Pulaski, and George G. Bown, Fairport, N. Y.

Mr. Iddings has had an extensive and varied experience in journalism and in travel. He is a native of Warren, Ohio, and was graduated at the University of Michigan. Later he took a course of university of Michigan. Later he took a course of study in the Law Department of Columbia University in this city, and he was admitted to the bar. Mr. Iddings has given especial attention to the study of international law, of historical questions and precedents, and of modern languages. He was for many years a member of the staff of The Tribune, and later he was the City Editor of 'The New-York Evening Post' for several years. He has travelled widely and is a man of broad culture and of exceptional attainments. His many friends in this country and in Europe declare that he is admirably fitted for the position to which he has been appointed as a member of the Embassy at Rome, and expect him to achieve a conspicuous success at the capital of Italy. He has contributed a number of articles to newspapers and magazines, and is master of a felicitous style. He is a keen observer, familiar with men and with affairs, and thoroughly qualified for the diplomatic service.

His wife is one of the three daughters of Josiah Belden, who was formerly a citizen of California, but who left the Pacific Coast and became a resident of this city nearly twenty years ago. Mr. Belden died at his New-York home, No. 7 West Fifty-first-st., several years ago.

At St. Petersburg exchange is below the gold point and gold continues to come in fits and starts. The Imperial Bank pays 322.81 gold rubles per pound for British sovereigns. Exchange tends to rise at Rome. At Lisbon there has been a sharp advance in foreign exchange, which is now approaching record prices. At Madrid exchange keeps very high, and all the time shows a rising tendency. Chillian exchange shows a weak tone, and there is some selling of bills for later delivery at low rates. LARGE CREDIT BALANCE ABROAD. The United States will, beyond doubt, have a large credit balance abroad on current account three months from now. There is no evidence that any very large quantity of imported merchandise yet remains to be paid for, while recant developments in the grain markets show what may be expected when exchange futures begin to come forward in quantity. Purchases here of stocks from London are being settled from week to week, hence the credit balance of this country will probably soon be large. This balance can only be settled in one of three ways—by gold shipments, shipments of securities, or borrowing. Neither the Bank of England nor the Bank of France is this year as strong in gold holdings as a year ago. The Bank strong in gold holdings as a year ago. The Bank of England is decidedly weaker. Any demand for gold for the United States would necessarily fail mainly upon these two institutions.

Speaking of the change in general conditions that has taken place. John H. Davis said: "We start the work of rectoration and progress on a sounder basis than has existed for twenty years, sounder basis than has existed for twenty years, even without the two great factors which are of especial importance at this time. These two great factors are the crops and the tariff. From every part of the land come reports of abundant crops, and from almost every other part of the world come evidences that our wheat and corn will be in universal demand. There is a shortage everywhere but here. The great wheat competing countries, Russia, India. Australia and the Argentine Republic, will have to buy largely outside to meet their own necessities. The United States is their only source of supply. Instead of formidable competitors they will be our customers. They are drawing heavily already from ed States is their only source of supply. Instead of formidable competitors they will be our customers. They are drawing heavily already from our store of last year's crop. They are contracting for that which is being harvested. Every available vessel on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts is being eagerly chartered for wheat exports. Forty steamers were chartered in one day in New-York. This extraordinary demand has carried wheat up 11 cents a bushel in the month of July, and the price is about 25 cents higher than it was twelve months ago. In 1896 the United States and Canada exported about 145,000,000 bushels; it is expected that Europe will take 200,000,000 bushels of the crop of 1897. There is little doubt that the value of our agricultural and mineral exports this year will be the largest in all our National history, even exceeding 1891, the last great crop year, when we sent out 225,000,000 bushels of wheat. The excessive heat of the early August days, and drouth in some sections, have done some damage to corn, but the total yield of our leading crops will be above the average, and the higher prices obtained will more than offset any such damage. The gain which our farmers will realize this year will do much more than stimurealize the state of the crop of the average. realize this year will do much more than stimu-iate debt-paying on their part (more particularly noted elsewhere); it will give them money for new machinery, for improvements in their houses, for family requirements and luxuries; it will give great and remunerative traffic to the railroads; it will stimulate our rolling mills and machine shops; it will put new life in the iron and steel trade; it will revive our ship-building industry; it will kill and bury Bryanism; its influence will be felt for the good in every industrial line; it will make 1897 one of the most notable years in our commercial and financial his-

CROPS IN THE WEST.

Ansel Oppenheim, vice-president of the Chicago Great Western Railway, who is in New-York, said yesterday:

"Crops in our territory are all right. Wheat brings a good price, and the farmers are going to have a good year. Our earnings have begun to show important gains—$20,000 increase for the fourth week in July—and the August car movement thus far shows steady increases over last year. Our English security-holders have stood by the preperty when times were bad and now see a very hopeful outlook. We have in common with all roads felt the effects of the hard times in recent years, but our gross earnings have risen from $2,500,000 to nearly $5,000,000 in the last few years. We earned more net money in 1896 than we did in 1892 on practically the same mileage, which is something that can be said by comparatively few roads. We earned over $5,000 per mile gross last year, or about the same as the gross earnings per mile of St. Paul. Our local business has increased rapidly, and we get a good share brings a good price, and the farmers are going ings per mile of St. Paul. Our local business has increased rapidly, and we get a good share of the through business from the East. The local ownership in our line at St. Paul and at some other points has had a strong influence in bringing business our way. We get more busilocal ownership in our line at St. Paul and some other points has had a strong influence in bringing business our way. We get more business from the East than some of the other roads on this account. We have made great efforts to get the good will of shippers all along the line, and this is giving us a permanent and growing traffic. Our lines have been located with reference to doing business at a low ratio of cost. Very few roads anywhere are so free from curves. Our lines run from thirty to forty miles on a stretch in absolutely straight lines. Our maximum grades are the lowest of those of all lines crossing the State of Iowa. During the last few years we have realized the necessity of hauling heavy trainloads, and we have been putting large sums into the property in the form of heavy bridges and lower grades. The Railroad Commissioners of Iowa, in their last report, have inserted plates showing the condition of our lines as an illustration of good work. tion of our lines as an illustration of good work. So far as our location, physical condition and equipment go, the Chicago Great Western may be set down to-day as well to the front among modern, high-class Western roads."

TO ENTERTAIN NAVAL OFFICERS.

SUMMER RESIDENTS OF NEWPORT ABRANGING FOR AN ELABORATE BALL.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 7 (Special).-Great preparations are in progress for what promises to be one of the biggest balls of the season. This is the comolimentary dance to be given on Monday evening at the Casino by the summer cottagers in honor of Admiral Sicard and the officers of the North Atlantic Squadron, in recognition of their hearty co-operation in making the recent fête a great sucess. Arrangements for this ball have been delegated to a committee made up of W. Watts Sher-man, W. R. Travers and Lispenard Stewart, and he work of preparation is being rapidly pushed. The little theatre, which will be the scene of the ball proper, will be lighted with pretty electric amp effects and carpeted with valuable rugs. The illuminations will be extended to the promenading plazzas and to the dining tent, which will fill the entire space between the theatre and the tennis court. In this tent, at small tables, seating eight persons each, will be accommodations for 223 guests. All the verandas will be inclosed with red and white hangings, making them essentially a part of the ballroom. On the lawn an additional promenade will be improvised, inclosed by flowers and costly plants, the lawn itself and the trees being made to resemble fairyland by the use of lan-terns and electric bulbs. The floral decorations are to be on a liberal scale, while the supper will be elaborate. The expense of the ball, which will be several thousand dollars, will be met by subscriptions, nearly seventy names being already registered, including most of those prominent in society circles. On board the New-York, the flagship of the On board the New-York, the flagship of the squadron, this afternoon the officers gave a large reception for the citizens and summer residents, who have, during the stay of the vessels here, extended many social courtesies to their officers. The occasion was especially enjoyable, because it offered an excellent opportunity for the guests to wilness the interesting boat races between crews representing the different craft of the fleet.

M. Patenoire, the French Ambassador, and Mme, Patenoire were the guests of honor this afternoon at a musical and dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin S. Brice, whom they have been visiting for a few days past.

Calvin S. Brice, whom they have been visiting for a few days past.

Mrs. J. Fred Plerson gave a dinner at the populate of the second part of the s Iris, the course being from Fort Adams to Castle Hill buoy and return. The other contestants were Miss Fish, daughter of Stuyvesant Fish, and her two brothers and Master Wells. The two girls, while not perhaps as good sailors as the skippers of the 30-footer fleet, handled their boat in good style, and proudly carried off the prize, in the form of a silver cup. This is likely to be only the first in a series of similar contests.

THE PRESIDENT'S OUTING.

MR. M'KINLEY PASSES A QUIET DAY AT HOTEL CHAMPLAIN.

HE PLAYS TENPINS WITH VICE-PRESIDENT HOBART AND LOSES-THE FIRST

STATE DINNER. [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Hotel Champlain, N. Y., Aug. 7.-President McKinley remained in this neighborhood to-day and enjoyed another day of almost complete rest. The day was a remarkably fine one, the atmosphere being so clear that for the first time Mount Mary and other distant peaks of the Adirondacks came into view, while Lake Champlain was as blue as the sky above it.

There was a large amount of business from Washington to attend to, which accumulated while the President was in Vermont yesterday, and he, therefore, gave up his morning hour to its consideration in company with the clerks from the White House. When some of this work was in progress the 21st Infantry marched up on the hotel grounds from Plattsburg and went through their usual morning parade in fine form. The day was rather warm, and, therefore, the brass helmets had been exchanged for white ones of pith, and the regiment had also donned white trousers. In this summer garb, it looked fully capable of a campaign in a tropical country. Vice-President Hobart and General Russell A. Alger, the Secretary of War, witnessed the parade of the regiment from the veranda of the Hotel Champlain, Mr. Hobart, however, surrendered the post of honor as the reviewing officer to the Secretary of War. General Alger looked over the soldiers with a critical eye, and appeared much gratified at their excellent marching.

There is always a disposition upon the of the President, the Vice-President and the Secretary of War to have some kind of recreation after the review. To-day, they wandered off to the bowling alley, which is in a neat wooden building south of the annex. It is visible from Mr. McKinley's windows, and through the quiet hours of the morning he must hear the big wooden balls rolling there as the men and women guests of the hotel enjoy the game. He was, therefore, easily persuaded by Vice-President Hobart to undertake a contest with him at tenpins. Mr. Hobart practised the game here last summer, and to-day he vanquished the President, scoring 187 points to the President's 115. Wilbur F. Wakeman, appraiser of the port of New-York, acted as scorer. His record shows that President McKinley had two "strikes" and two "spares," while the Vice-President had three "strikes" and two "spares." The Vice-President's strikes were consecutive and, there fore, his score was high as compared with the President's. Elated by this victory, the Vice-President challenged the Secretary of War. General Alger, however, played a strong game, and although the Vice-President was again the victor, his score was considerably smaller. Mr. Hobart scored 148 points, while General Alger made 126 points.

The noon train from New-York brought here Whitelaw Reid and Mrs. Reid, who had come here in response to an invitation from the President and his wife to make them a visit. Mr. Reid early in the afternoon, in company with Mrs. Reid, visited President McKinley and Mrs. McKinley in their rooms, and passed most of the afternoon in their company. Later in the afternoon President McKinley ordered his carriage, and, in company with Mrs. McKinley and Mr. and Mrs. Reid as his guests, enjoyed a ride in the beautiful country about the Hotel Champlain. The noon train from New-York brought here

This evening President McKinley gave his first State dinner in the hotel. He had as his guests Vice-President Hobert and Mrs. Hobert, General Russell A. Alger, the Secretary of War, and Mrs. Alger, Whitelaw Reid and Mrs. Reid, and J. Addison Porter, secretary to the President, and Mrs. Porter.

Ex-Senator Warner Miller arrived here this evening from New-York. He said that his mission liere was in behalf of the great work of constructing an international canal across the Peninsula of Nicaragua. Dock Commissioner O'Brien, of New-York, arrived here to-day.

President McKinley, it was announced to-day, has decided to visit the Ausable Chasm on Tuesday next.

COMMENT ON CURRENT TOPICS.

WHEAT AND SILVER PART COMPANY. From The Philadelphia Times.

From The Philadelphia Times.

The price of wheat is now nearly as high as it has been at any time for a number of years, and the price of sliver is lower than it has ever been in the recorded markets of the world. The theory of the cheap money demagogues that the price of wheat and other farm products would always be governed by the price of sliver, that misled many farmers into the slimy embrace of Populism, has been entirely exploded, and can never be revived again.

WEYLER PREFERS A DISTANT FOE. From The Baltimore American.

From The Baltimore American.

Weyler is off for Matanzas in search of the enemy. Quite a number of the Cubans were amusing themselves in the neighborhood of Havana, and occasionally punctuating their fun by penetrating the city itself, but they were not the kind that Weyler was in search of. He could have found them easily, but there is not much excitement in running headlong into the arms of the enemy.

ENGLAND'S ZOLLVEREIN. From The Rochester Post-Express.

From The Rochester Post-Express.

Joseph Chamberlain, still claiming to be of the school of Cobden, repudiates the teaching of the master. The federation is in strict accord with the tariff policy which the United States has again vindicated in its lexislation—free trade between the various commonwealths and duties laid on imports, for revenue and for protection to home industries. No sophistry of words should confuse the identity of the policy which is perfected in America and a contemplated by Great Britain.

CANADA'S RIGHT TO THE GOLD.

From The Hartford Courant.

The intention of the Canadian Government to secure a portion of the riches hidden in the ground of the region of the upper Yukon is wise. It is not improbable that valuable deposits of gold-bearing quartz may be found and the region become as productive as South Africa before the surface washings are exhausted. Why should not the people of the country participate in wealth resulting from disclosing treasure in their public land? From The Hartford Courant.

PROTECTORATE OR ANNEXATION?

Whether or not there shall be a United States protectorate of the Hawaiian Republic depends upon two events—the request of the Hawaiian Republic for such a protectorate and the willingness of the United States to assume the function of protector. If the two parties in interest be of one mind, it will not lie in the province of any foreign Power to protest, still less to interfere. From The Chicago Inter Ocean.

THE REV. LR. FRANK N. BRISTOL ACCEPTS A CALL TO THE METROPOLITAN CHURCH

IN WASHINGTON. Chicago, Aug. 7.—The Rev. Dr. Frank N. Bristol, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Evanston, Ill., has accepted a call from President McKinley's church, the Metropolitan M.thodist

Episcopal, in Washington. Dr. Bristol is one the best-known ministers in the West. The Metropolitan is known as the church at-tended by General Grant when he was President, and it was there that John P. Newman, now one of the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church won fame. The Rock River Conference has sen won fame. The Rock River Conterence Dr. Bristol as a delegate to the last three General Conferences of the Church. He has been promi received one of the largest salaries paid in the received one of the largest salaries paid in the Methodist Church. The present pastor of the Methodolitan is the Rev. Hugh Johnston, who has filled a term of five years.

Dr. Bristol was born in Orleans County, N. Y., in 1851. His parents came to Illinois when he was guite young. Fifteen years ago he was graduated from the Northwestern University, after a hard struggle, owing to his scanty funds. Dr. Bristol entered the ministry in 1879. Since then he has filled prominent Methodist pulpits in the Rock River Conference, including Grace and Trinity churches in Chicago. Many well-known citizens are numbered among his friends. He was a close comrade of the late Eugene Field. The change probably will not be made until October.
